Crane and Rigging Insurance Program

Recent energy expansion, multi-family construction development, and municipality/public works growth are among several project-types that have provided crane and rigging contractors opportunities for work in the recovering economy. New and existing contractors are finding new opportunities and must consider strict risk management procedures and obtain comprehensive insurance policies to ensure their assets are covered. Western Pacific Insurance Network, Inc. works with Independent Agents to develop general liability, inland marine, commercial auto, and umbrella/excess policies geared to fit each contractor's individual needs whether the risk be small, medium, or large.
