Background

All contractors face Pollution exposures. Combined with increasing environmental pressures from State and Federal agencies including the EPA, many contractors realize the need to minimize their exposures for pollutant dangers to air, water, soil, and even bodily contamination. Spills and fumes resulting from accidental pipe, barrel or tank punctures, lead contamination in pre 1978 built homes, fire, explosion, storm, and vandalism incidents all put contractors at risk. Many of these exposures are uncontrollable or unpredictable, thus the need to Contractor's Pollution Liability arises.

Agents can protect their E&O and provide value-added services to their contractor clients by offering Pollution Liability quotes. Western Pacific's dedication to serve agents with full-service contractor insurance programs continues with it's Pollution Liability program fit for any contractor.
